The Scandal Which Is Agitating Army Circles.

MRS. O'BRIEN RODE A WHEEL

Lieut, Bamford Had One and They Took Rides Together-This Started the Gossips-Captain Romeyn's Daughter Said to Have Been Engaged to the Lieutenant,

Atlanta, April 25.-The Young, pretty wife of Lieut, O'Brien, of the Fifth United States Infantry, has been made by garnson goestp to figure in as sensational an Army scandal as ever a courtmartial of sober and severe old troopers was called upon to investigate.

The court is directly concerned with the specific charges made by Lieut. O'Brien against Capt. Romeyn, who reflected, it is said, upon Mrs. O'Brien's good name, with the result that she was ostracised by the wives of the officers at Fort McPher-But the decision must concern the oung woman more than Capt. Romeyn.

Mrs. O'Brien was the life of society at the fort until she learned to ride a bleycle a few months ago. Her nusband took lit-We interest in the sport, but Lieut. Bamford, who sat with them at mess, frequently acted as her except on excuraions into the surrounding country. Their trips became frequent and oftentimes they were gone from dawn until dark. The dail routine of barrack life, reheved only by the monotonous drills and dress parades, offered no end of time for gossip. It started with the men, who remarked quietly that O'Brien should take to the bike himself or restrict his wife to riding within the grounds of the fort.

This small talk did not reach the ear of O'Brien, who manifested as keen an interest in her trips as she did herself. He invariably saw her leave with Lieut. Battford and he waved his hands to them as they sped out over the country roads. The talk spread to the women folks of the fert.

It was a choice morsel of gossip.

Lieut, Bamford, too, had become known about the fort as the favorite suitor for the hand of Miss Romeyn, daughter of the captain. She didn't ride a take and, of course, she didn't enjoy the daily spectacle of Mrs. O'Erien and Lieut. Bamford spinning out of the forton their wheels.

All this talk of the women was over knitting and dining fires, and did not get to the hearing of the men. At the same time the nen were discussing the matter between puffs in the ness halls and on

In February the O'Briens, ignorant of it all, issued invitations for a german. Several regrets were received from the wives of officers. This was enough to excite surprise. A garrison is like a big family, where no scandal talk distorts its serenity, and regrets are unheard of except when Illness intervenes. O'Briens soon discovered the reason. Capt. Romeyn had dropped the spar into this magazine of scandalous talk. It has developed before the court that he had repeated to Stephen Bennett, of Atbeen bandled about; how Maj. Taylor had refused to permit his daugiter to atlend the german, and how the soldiers were all talking about Mrs. O'Brien's tike rides with Lieut Bamford.

Mr. Bennett, who had been Mrs. O'Brien's partner at several of the figures at the german, dropped hints of Capt. Romeyn's innendoes to some lady friends at the garrison, and well everyone can imagine the substance of the captain's talk reached O'Brien.

One afternoon late in February, after the regiment and been put through the evolusofdress parade, Lieut. O'Brienstepped up to Capt Romeyn on the field and de manded an explanation, saving plainly that he had not acted the part of a gentle-Capt. Romeyn's repty was a blow across the licutement's face. was then discussed publicly and the court-

d details have been developed. Several ladies of the garrison have appeared as witnesses, and Mrs. O'Brien herself will be called early next week. Lieut. O'Brien has testified that the blevele rides were all taken with his knowledge and several at his suggestion, and that Lieut. Bamford was a gentleman in whom he had the fullest confidence.

Major Taylor, whose daughter did not go to the dance, has explained that his daughter made a formal call after the german so that the relations of the family old not be broken. He said, though that because of the gossip he preferred not to have his daughter become "too thick" with Mrs. O'Brien. He desired, however, to make no reflections upon affair, as such events always are, was

Lieut. Bamford has told of the innocent character of the bicycle outlings, and in his testimony gave garrison society an- South. She has been the practical force other shock by saying that he had never been engaged to Miss Romeyn. Miss Romeyn has since declared that he was, and there's more talk and more to come when this case is all over.

Stephen Bennett, to whom Capt. Romeyn. confided the gossip, has told of the captain's conversation, and how surprised he was at the story.

Licut. Martin has repeated how the excited adverse comment, and Mrs. Martin has added how she has avoided speaking to Mrs. O'Brien because of them. Lieut. Xelk has said that the way in which Mrs. O'Brien and Lieut, Bandor I danced together was a "brassy cented this with the remark that Mrs.

O'Brien's conduct was shameful. Capt. Howen came on the stand yesterday and furnished another sensational chapter of the story. He said he had noticed nothing that could be classed as criminal in the relations of Mrs. O'Brien to Lieut. Bamford, but added: "I heard Mrs. Kellogg, the wife of the late commandant of the post, say to my wife that she had ed to go bieyele riding with Mrs. O'Brien as she half become tired of being made a convenience for the latter to meet Licut. Bamford in the woods."

Capt. Romeyn called his daughter Nina to the stand, but she was too much affected by the surroundings to testify. She will tell of Lieut, Bamford's engagement to her. All the women at the garrison will prob ably be called as witnesses in the hearing before it is closed.

SUNDAY'S HIGH TEMPERATURE.

This City Yesterday Was the Hottest in the United States.

Washington yesterday had the not alto-gether enviable distinction of being the hottest nince in the country For several days past the thermometer to the horror of the coal dealers and the corresponding delight of the ice man, and the soda water dispenser, has been creeping steadily upward and yesterday, shortly after noon, it reached its highest, registering a trifle more than 88 degrees, eclipsing every other city in the United States by several degrees. Notwittedanding the great seeming heat, however, there was really very little to complain of, as the hot spell is not only later than in previous seasons, but also of less intensity. Last year, for instance, the thermometer had reached 90 degrees before the 15th of April. Instances of even higher temperatures in that month may be had upon request at the Weather Bureau. The first relief of yesterday's undue warmth was felt shortly after sunset just night, when clouds began to gather and a slight breeze sprang up.

About 10 o'clock the breeze freshened considerably, a light rainfull succeeding The rain stacked after a short time, but eccording to the weather bureau it marked the end of the bot wave, which, still oving eastward, has now left the coast. #### THE PLANTERS DISSATISFIED. Object to Rations Being Distributed Among Their Employes.

New Orleans, April 25.-The Louisiana planters in the flooded districts are still very much put out over the proposed relief and distribution of rations among lief office, and believe it will do harm Relief may be necessary in time, but they think the Government ought not to feed their employes until asked to do so by the parish through the police juries or ners They bitterly oppose t plan insisted on by Capt. Trooper Salosky Falls Under the Wheels and Meets Instant Death.

Slipped From an Embankment to the Track-It Was Impossible to Slacken the Car's Speed.

Joseph Salosky, a private of Troop G. stationed at Fort Myer, was run over by an electric car of the Falls Church road last evening, and instantly killed.

From what can be learned of the accident, it seems that Salosky was walking near the edge of the embankment, above the car track, when he supped and fell to the track below, and just in front of a rapidly approaching car. The car struck him before its speed could be slackened, and the unfortunate man's body

A Fierce Engagement Between Gomez and Ruiz.

A CHARGE WITH MACHETES

The Spaniards Insist That Tomas Estrada Palma Has Been Formal ly Warned by President McKinley Not to Violate the Neutrality Laws of the United States.

Hayana, April 24, via Key West, April 25. -The war is going on fiercely in Sauta Clara province. Near Remedies, in the northeastern part of the province, an engagement is reported between Gen. Gomez and the Spanish column of Gen-Ruiz, which lasted several hours.

The Coban commander used his guerilla tactics, showing the admirable training of his troops. The Cubans separated into small bands at a given order from Gomez, barassing the Spanish from all sides. Then they came together again in large bodies, for cavalry attacks upon the Spaniards as soon as Gen. Ruiz's column began to march. The Spaniards were greatly fatigued by these factics, and their artillery was rendered useless. They entered Remedies worn out and leaving 150 dead along their line of murch. The Ceban losses were almost insignificant. In the hills of La Signanea another hard fight is reported between the Cubans, led by Gens. Quintin, Banderas, and Rebau, and the combined forces of Gens. Montaner and Aldare. Banderas fought bravely, ordering his men to charge with their machetes. A hand-to-hand fight ensued, in which the Spaniards were obliged to retire, both sides suffering heavy losses. Gen. Rebau, after the engagement, pursued the column of Gen. Aldare to Sancti Spiritus, and harrassed it all day, killing more than 190

In all Santa Clara province the revolution as strong as ever, and Weyler's report that he pacified the province has no basis in fact. The Spaniards here insist that Senor Tomas Estrada Palma has received a formal warning from President McKinley two years ago he instituted a claim against not to violate the neutrality laws of the United States, and now the same state ment is made on no less authority than Senor Unnovas himself. It estimated that 150,000 people visited the

Some of the stands that offered seats then at $3 were taking $2 today, and a similar drop was noticed nearly all the way along the line. It is said that the President sent him to make the last appeal to Gov. Bushnell to appeant Mark Hanna as Senator from Ohio to size-

Up to this time it was feared that Gov. Bushnell would ignore the President's wishes in the matter and appoint another man. Baidwin, however, as Talleyrand to the "Second Napoleon," by his diernor's mind, and it is a matter of recent history how Hanna's name was sent to the Senate. Mr. Raldwin's visit to Cuba will be more being held by the State Department that a legal adviser should be sent there to assist Consul General Lee in the proposed Ruiz investigation.

Mr. Baldwin is not expected to arrive in Washington until after the President's return from the Grant memorial exercises in New York, on next Wednesday will then begin to acquaint himself with all of the detalls connected with the alleged murder of Ruiz from papers on file in the State Department before leaving for

It is more than probable that Mr. Baldwin will also have a talk with Mrs. Ruiz before undertaking the important work Judge Day is now in Canton, and acquaint his successor with all of the information be had gathered in connection with the Ruiz case before the President determined to appoint him as Secretary Sherman's assistant.
